Mike Richardson

SENIOR VICE PRESIDENT & COMMERCIAL BANKING OFFICER, CHAIN BRIDGE BANK, N.A.

How do you employ new technology to help your clients?

We're technology based and forward thinking. When Chain Bridge Bank first opened, the branch model was becoming obsolete as consumers and businesses shifted to digital banking, and a commitment was made by the Bank to stay at the forefront of technology. Our model is on par with the financial tools offered by the largest banks in the country, but with an added consultative approach to client service. We provide the latest payment, reporting and bill-pay technology, and we listen to our clients in order to develop highly effective solutions to best meet their needs.

Our Treasury Management platform provides business owners and financial teams with the research and reporting tools to drill down into their accounts, track revenue and spending, and identify trends impacting their balance sheet.

The commitment to higher-end financial technology coupled with our specialized consultative approach to banking and experienced team are the key drivers of success for Chain Bridge Bank.
